Program Overview

The Senior Companion program provides assistance to older adults with various health issues as well as older people who are lonely and could benefit from a friendly visitor. Often, these individuals have difficulty with daily living tasks, and Senior Companions help them retain their dignity and independence by providing regular, helpful visits.

The program offers many benefits that include:

- › Increased socialization
- › Decreased loneliness
- › Increased functioning at home
- › Respite for family caregivers
- › A friend to count on

Participants decide how they would like to spend time with their Senior Companion. Some activities include talking, watching a favorite show together, playing games, or participating in hobbies. Senior Companions can provide some light help at home such as preparing a meal or tidying up. They can also accompany participants to medical appointments or other outings.

Senior Companions can make it possible for vulnerable, older adults to remain safe and happy in their own homes. Program participants report feeling less lonely, eating nutritious meals more regularly, feeling more satisfied with their lives, and remaining close with more people as a result of having a Senior Companion.
